"Communicating with Empathy" A Conversation with Krystal Covington, CEO and Founder of Women of Denver

Brunch Program (members and guests welcome);
Saturday, March 2, 2019, 10:00 a.m. - Noon;
Cost $15

Krystal Covington is a Denver-based marketing and communication consultant, author, and speaker whose mission is to change the world for the better, especially for women. As CEO & Founder of Women of Denver, Krystal has developed a large and growing network that helps professional women develop their business skills, build confidence, and earn their worth as business leaders. Strong communicators think about their audience first and create messages that meet their most important needs. In this program, Krystal will explain to attendees the top 3 questions they should be asking before communicating with anyone and how to use these tools to improve team communication, client conversations, and marketing.

Please RSVP to Joey Porcelli: gortimer@msn.com before February 28th.

OR, Sign up via PayPal: Buy tickets here

(Please note, no-shows after this date will be billed for the cost of the brunch, as we will be charged by the caterer whether you come or not.)

So, you're published (or planning to be)
... HOW'S THAT WORKING FOR YOU?

- Did you publish with a traditional publisher?
- Did you publish with a small press?
- Did you publish via a "pay to publish" company?
- Did you do it on your own? Are you trying to figure ... which way to go?

The savvy author and author-to-be learns quickly that Timing, Control, Quality ... and yes, Money are all essential components to successful publishing. Amazon changed everything ... Today, a great majority of established authors and authors-to-be are "bypassing" traditional and taking some form of the Independent Publishing. Join DWPC member Judith Briles to learn in depth the latest tricks of the publishing trade, share experiences, and come away with tools to make a new publishing game plan for your next masterpiece.

Women's Trade Union League, founded in 1903

DWPC & Molly Brown House Museum
Commemorate Int'l Women's Day
Thursday, March 7, 2019, 5:30 - 7:30 p.m.

Join us for for an evening of conversation kicking off an exciting 2019 Salon Series, jointly sponsored by the Molly Brown House Museum and DWPC. Here we will explore the origins of International Women's Day (March 8th), which dates back to 1909 when thousands of American trade union women went on strike for better working conditions in New York's garment industry. This historical movement ties directly into the IWD 2019 campaign theme, #BalanceforBetter, which is a call for communities everywhere to explore the importance of gender balance in building a better world.

We'll convene at 5:30 at the historic Denver Woman's Press Clubhouse at 1325 Logan Street, where we'll enjoy refreshments and brief presentation on the inspiring working women's movement in the early 1900s, nationally and in Denver. Then we'll "march" over one block to the Molly Brown House Museum at 1340 Pennsylvania Street where we'll learn about Margaret Brown's vision for women's equality and continue the lively discussion.

Free and open to the public, with RSVP: IWD Salon Registration
