Mindy Sink
Chasing Hiking Happiness
Virtual Sunday Salon via Zoom
THIS Sunday, October 4, 3:00-4:00 pm

Mindy Sink is the author of 60 Hikes Within 60 Miles of Denver and Boulder and other guidebooks. What better time than now to find new hiking trails close to home!

In the course of her research for this book Mindy hiked over 70 trails and nearly 400 miles with a variety of friends and family. She will tell us about the trails, becoming a hiking expert, provide tips for wannabe hikers, and happily take questions.

MEET & GREET... Jenna Browning
DWPC House Chair
Virtual Event via Zoom
Thursday, October 8, 6:00-6:30 pm

Our Meet & Greets are fun, casual sessions where members can get to know current board members.

Writer, editor, proofreader, freelancer, mom of twin boys, middle-school spelling coach, DWPC House Chair--like most of us, Jenna Browning wears many hats. Join Jenna as she discusses working on staff for local magazine and book publishers, taking her son to the Scripps National Spelling Bee, and juggling life and work in the days when we do everything from home.

Storm Beat* by Lori Tobias
Insight Into Reporters and Reporting
Virtual Special Event
Thursday, October 15, 7:00 pm

Join Oregon DWPC club member Lori Tobias as she presents her new memoir, Storm Beat - A Journalist Reports from the Oregon Coast.

Published by Oregon State University Press, Storm Beat chronicles the stories behind the news stories Lori reported in her more than decade covering the 360-odd mile long Oregon Coast for The Oregonian.

Sometimes driving hundreds of miles over the ruggedly beautiful landscape, she covered crashes, drownings, capsizings, and even rappelled from a helicopter, triggering vertigo. Her vivid accounting will give you chills and insight into reporters and reporting.

Formerly a staff writer for the Rocky Mountain News and a 24-year-member of the DWPC, Lori also details the decline of the newspaper business.

Save October 15, 7:00 pm and join Lori along with member Sally Kurtzman and Denver journalist Mary Winter.

The Scary and Joyous Catharsis of Fiction Writing, Debra Faulkner

Virtual Sunday Salon via Zoom
Sunday, October 18, 3:00-4:00 pm

It's scary for a non-fiction history writer to venture into the spooky labyrinth of fiction for the first time. You know from the beginning how a historical story ends. But with fiction, unforeseen plot developments can jump out and surprise you. Anything you can imagine can happen in the fictional world you create -- a potent and joyous catharsis when you're feeling powerless to affect events in the real world.

Ghost Tour is more than a collection of spooky tales. It's a historical preservationist's revenge fantasy. Join Debra Faulkner as she discusses the process – as well as the poltergeists – that went into the writing of her first novel at this DWPC Sunday Salon.

Announcements From The DWPC Community

Long-time DWPC member Jane Houston passed away September 25, 2020. Her extraordinary love, kindness and patience defined all 84 years of her life.

Jane graduated from CU's School of Journalism in 1958. She worked for the Broomfield Star in advertising, then Broyles, Allebaugh & Davis as an account executive. She joined the public relations team at Tracey-Locke, and later started her own business. In February, Jane celebrated 60 years of marriage to her beloved husband, Bill Houston.

Jane was president of the Denver Woman's Press Club and helped lead the club's effort to keep ownership of the historic Burr home on Logan Street, which continues today.

Donations in Jane's memory can be made to the Denver Woman's Press Club, 1325 Logan St., Denver CO 80203. Our thoughts and prayers are with her family.

DWPC Secretary Kathryn O'Shea-Evans recently retraced British travel writer Isabella Bird's 1873 footsteps through what is now Rocky Mountain National Park. The Wall Street Journal is running the story of Kathryn's five-hour horseback ride and one heart-pumping hike. Find it at <https://www.wsj.com/articles/in-colorados-rocky-mountain-national-park-a-healthy-fall-getaway-11600198552?tesla=y>

Mary Coyle Chase, the Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright -- who wrote Harvey about a six-foot-tall invisible rabbit and his friend Elwood P. Dowd -- was the first living woman to receive an honorary Denver Woman's Press Club membership. She was also one of the first inductees into the Colorado Women's Hall of Fame. (CWHF)

DWPC member Mimi Pockross is joining forces with the CWHF to produce a documentary on Mary Chase for their series Great Colorado Women. The film series, airing on Rocky Mountain PBS, is now in its fourth season and profiles outstanding members of the Hall of Fame. It is available to schools and libraries, and can be streamed online at any time. Past programs can be seen at www.cogreatwomen.org

Among those who have been the subjects are Helen Bonfils, Marilyn VanDerbur Adler and DWPC honorary member Dana Crawford. Mary Chase's story would be the first time a woman artist was the subject.

Each segment is individually funded at a cost of $12,000. Two-thirds of that amount has already been pledged. Only $3500 more is needed. Mimi is seeking donors from DWPC members and its advocates. Small amounts or large amounts would both be most helpful.

To find out more about the project or to offer support, email Mimi at mimip03@comcast.net

THE DWPC CLUBHOUSE IS CLOSED UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE
DUE TO THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC.
