A MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

The Denver Woman's Press Club has been around for 122 years. We've weathered many a storm throughout U.S history, and we will weather this one.

Now that we are all hunkered down and practicing our best social distancing, it is time to reach out to each other. Many of our members are older and would appreciate a call or a note, an offer to pick up groceries or simply a kind word through email. It's the camaraderie and uplifting spirit that make this club important to us all.

We will get through these unprecedented times, but it will be easier if we do it together.

Anne Randolph
DWPC President 2019-20

Announcements From The DWPC Community

Kathryn Winograd's book, Slow Arrow: Unearthing the Frail Children, was published this month. The author journeys into what it means to be a steward of the land and a steward of a grieving mother sliding into blindness who announces she will live out her days in a forty-acre southwest Colorado high mountain meadow.

In this collection of essays, Kathryn braids together the pressing environmental issues of today with the sacred and profane intersections of the human and natural world. Available through Amazon, Barnes & Noble, and other outlets.
